If you make an offer which meets the reserve price and the object is still available at this moment, you will purchase the item immediately.

If your offer does not meet the reserve price, please note that you are bound to this offer for a term of 14 days. In this period of time, we will try to obtain the seller's consent. However, should there be another offer which actually meets the reserve price, the item will automatically be sold to this bidder. Please understand that in this case you will not be specifically informed.

Please note that the buyer's commission for items sold after the auction below the reserve price is 30%.
